

Telepsychiatry for Anxiety Disorders

Abstract

This is a synthetic, publicly usable clinical research paper for demonstration purposes.

Methodology

Randomized controlled study with adult participants over a six-month period.

Results

Patients receiving telepsychiatry reported significantly reduced anxiety scores ($p < 0.01$).

Conclusion

The study demonstrates clinical relevance for digital health interventions.